Forecast For Northern Ireland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Tuesday 18 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny spells and showers.

Today:
A chilly but sunny start with any fog patches soon clearing. Cloud bubbles up this morning with showers developing, these becoming heavy and perhaps thundery this afternoon. The showers tend to die out across the north and west later. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:
Any remaining showers in east gradually dying out then a mainly dry night with long clear spells developing. Becoming chilly and, with light winds, patchy mist and fog developing. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Wednesday:
Any overnight fog patches soon clearing then another day of sunny spells and showers. The showers will still be occasionally heavy, they aren't expected to be as widespread as Tuesday. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Soon becoming wet and windy on Thursday. Cloud and outbreaks of occasionally heavy rain slowly clear eastwards Friday with winds easing. Sunny spells and showers through Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.